1. BACKGROUND

The Finnish Ministry of Transport and Communications ("TCM") (Fin. Liikenne- ja viestintäministeriö) is preparing an amendment to the Act on Transport Services (the "Transport Services Act") (Fin. laki liikenteen palveluista 320/2017, as amended), the aim of which is to revise certain issues, which have arisen during a conducted assessment of the present conditions (the "Amendment").

This benchmarking review summary concerns taxi regulation in seven (7) European countries, which TCM has identified as beneficial benchmarking jurisdictions in light of the purpose of the contemplated Amendment (the "Summary"). The purpose of this Summary is to compile and present general benchmarking information on how the Amendment's objectives have been solved in the selected benchmarking jurisdictions.

TCM has identified Denmark, Estonia, France, Germany, the Netherlands, Norway and Sweden as beneficial benchmarking jurisdictions for the review, based on available information concerning taxi regulation in such countries. When acquiring such information, TCM has utilized the European Commission's study on passenger transport by taxi, hire car with driver and ridesharing in the EU¹ as well as Annex 3 of such study².

TCM has defined a total of nine (9) main questions to which they seek to receive answers from the relevant countries. For the avoidance of doubt, the aim of the benchmarking review has not been to draw-up a full summary of taxi regulation in the relevant countries, although brief summaries on currently applicable taxi regulation have been included where considered beneficial for the context.

2. GENERAL

The information presented in Section 3 of this Summary has been obtained from publicly available sources. If an exhaustive response to a presented question would have required extensive background research, such research has not been conducted and this has been indicated in the response.

The Summary has been prepared based on the questions TCM has identified to be of importance. If no regulation or legislative initiatives concerning the issue in question have been identified, this has been indicated in the Summary. If effective regulation or legislative initiatives concerning the issue in question have been identified, the main provisions of the identified regulation or legislative initiative have been described in the Summary and certain follow-up questions regarding monitoring measures, recent assessments concerning the regulation and plans regarding any amendments to the current regulation have also been elaborated on.

| Denmark | There is no statutory taxi driver training for assisting people with disabilities per se. Taxi drivers must, however, have participated in a course approved by the Minister of Transport, Building and Housing (Article 7 of the Danish Taxi Act (DE: Taxilov)). According to the political agreement on the modern- ization of the Danish Taxi Act (2017) (DE: Aftale om moderni- sering af taxiloven), such training shall include transportation of "spe- cial passenger groups", i.e. people with special needs. Please see Section 1.2 of Schedule 1 for further information. | driver are covered by the national legislation, the Danish Taxi Act (the "Danish Taxi Act ") as "commercial passenger transport" (Article 1 of the Danish Taxi Act). | The Minister of Transport, Building and Housing is responsible for monitoring compliance with the Danish Taxi Act (Article 11 of the Danish Taxi Act). The Minister of Transport, Building and Housing can delegate this task to the Ministry of Transport, Building and Housing (Article 34 of the Danish Taxi Act). The holder of a permit to carry out commercial pas- senger transport pursuant to Article 3 of the Danish Taxi Act can receive a fine if one has not made sure that one's drivers have passed a course approved by the Minister of Transport, Building and Housing in accordance with Article 7 of the Dan- | The regulation was as- sessed and amended in 2017 and it entered into force on 1 January 2018. The government decided that the training of taxi drivers shall include trans- portation of "special pas- senger groups", i.e. groups of people with special needs. This agreement marked the beginning of the modernization of the Danish Taxi Act, which re- sulted in the new Danish Taxi Act of 2017. Article 35 also prescribes fines more generally for non-compliance with most of the rules con- tained in the Danish Taxi Act. Both the holder of a per- mit to carry out commer- cial passenger transport and the holder of a chauf- feur card may have their permit/licence revoked (Articles 12 and 14 of the Danish Taxi Act). | | |
| France | There is no specific training for or- dinary taxi drivers for assisting people with disabilities. As for taxis specially equipped for people with disabilities, a specific licence must be obtained by the taxi driver. The taxi driver must under- go a training as an accompanying driver in accordance with Article 2 B of the national agreement of 7 | There are general rules which apply to all taxi services, but there are also specific rules for two subcategories of taxis: vehicles specially equipped for people with disabilities; and taxi services which are covered by social security for hospitalised persons ("Taxis Convention-") | Regarding taxis specially equipped for people with disabilities, there are no specific sanctions. Ordi- nary sanctions will be ap- plicable such as the pay- ment of a fine up to EUR 15,000 and a year of im- prisonment on the ground of unlawful practice of taxi driving (Articles | No. Please see Sections 3.2, 3.3, 3.4 and 3.5 of Schedule 1 for further information. | N/A |

| Norway | There is no statutory taxi driver training, only an examination (Sec- tion 9 of the PTA).Taxi drivers are obliged to have a driver's note (NO: kjøreseddel). In order to get a driver's note, one shall pass a statutory taxi driver examination, which includes a sec- tion on assisting people with disa- bilities.Please see Section 6.3 of Schedule 1 for further information. | If the transport service is an off-route transportation of passengers, the service is considered a taxi service, and is subject to taxi regulations. This is the situation both if the service is based on e.g. Uber model or on a more regular taxi service model. Thus, there are no separate regulation applied to regular taxis and other taxis. A licence is needed in order to offer transportation services to passengers with a motorized vehicle (Section 4 (1) and Section 9 of the Professional Transportation Act (" PTA ")). Different types of transportation require different types of licences. A taxi licence (NO: drosjeløyve) gives the holder of the licence a right to operate | There is no active moni- toring of the obligation to have a driver's note, but the driver's note has to be shown upon request, and the owner of the taxi li- cence has to make sure that everyone driving one's car(s) holds a driv- er's note. | The regulation relevant to this question was amended by the amendments to the legislation mentioned on the left. The obligatory driver's ex- amination, including sec- tion on assisting people with disabilities, is a new requirement, as there was no such obligation in the former legislation. | Please see the for- mer response. |
