

Dear Fi-domain team,

We're reaching out about the proposed fee increases for .fi domains that you recently announced.

A 33% jump from €9 to €12 annually seems pretty steep, especially for small businesses and individual users who are already dealing with rising costs everywhere else.

The new €400 registrar fee is also concerning since it'll likely get passed down to us as end users, making .fi domains even more expensive.

These increases will push people toward other domain options, which is far from great for us as Registrars and more so for Finland's digital presence.

In our opinion, only one of these measures should be applied and not both.

Best regards,
